That gets to the point of symbolism comms really, as it's a way to say without saying, to commit crimes openly in public view without breaking laws. So with that in mind, what kind of comm might have been built to threaten a 187? You know, something that can be played or pointed to for sending a message?

There's quite a few, but the one I want to focus on in this post is the band Queen.

Interesting art – and as I've covered in many decodes the past 2 years there's been a lot of 187 threats – which is perhaps why their most famous song "Bohemian Rhapsody" had a movie come out 2 years ago that made nearly a billion dollars.

Note the lyrics about killing.

Caught in a landslide - no escape from reality -
Open your eyes, look up to the skies and see -
I'm just a poor boy, I need no sympathy -
Because I'm easy come, easy go,
A little high, little low,
Anyway the wind blows, doesn't really matter to me - to

Mama, just killed a man,
Put a gun against his head,
Pulled my trigger, now he's dead.
Mama, life had just begun,
But now I've gone and thrown it all away -
Mama, oooh, didn't mean to make you cry -
If I'm not back again this time tomorrow -
Carry on, carry on, as if nothing really matters.

Too late, my time has come,
Sends shivers down my spine -

This song has quite a bit worth digging into, and it's what I'll be focusing on in this post. Btw, it's worth noting that based on my decodes the CIA built the best hooks for songs, and as a result almost every super popular song was given to clown band with the agreement they'd put in a specific message used for comms.

This one is a unique song, and the less obvious parts have some fascinating secret history to be dug out of this that's being used for a comm.

Too late, my time has come,
Sends shivers down my spine -
Body's aching all the time,
Goodbye everybody - I've got to go -
Gotta leave you all behind and face the truth -
Mama oooh - I don't want to die,
I sometimes wish I'd never been born at all.

I see a little shilouetto of a man,
Scaramouch, scaramouch will you do the Fandango -
Thunderbolt and lightning - very, very frightening me -
Galileo, Galileo, Galileo, Galileo, Galileo figaro - Manifico -
But I'm just a poor boy and nobody loves me -
He's just a poor boy from a poor family -
Spare him his life from this monstrosity.
Easy come, easy go - will you let me go -
Bismillah! No - we will not let you go - let him go
Bismillah! We will not let you go - let him go
Bismillah! We will not let you go - let him go
Will not let you go - let me go
Will not let you go - let me go
No, no, no, no, no, no, no -
Mama mia, mama mia, mama mia let me go -

Beelzebub has a devil put aside for me, for me - for me.

Galileo decode will be the mind blowing part of this post btw, but I'll go in order.

So if we assume this is a threat of sorts then what is this: "will you do the Fandango?"

Fandango | dance and music | Britannica

 <https://www.britannica.com/art/fandango>

Fandango, exuberant Spanish courtship dance and a genre of Spanish folk song. The dance, probably of Moorish origin, was popular in Europe in the 18th century and survives in the 20th century as a folk dance in Spain, Portugal, southern France, and Latin America.

That's an "exuberant Courtship dance" so the implication is will upon realizing they are about to be taken out, will they desperately beg to join? Or... and then we get "Thunderbolt and lightning"

Thor's Fight with the Giants

Thor's Fight with the Giants is an 1872 painting by the Swedish artist Mårten Eskil Winge. It depicts the Norse god Thor in a battle against the jötnar. The thunder god rides his chariot pulled by the goats Tanngrisnir and Tanngnjóstr, wears his belt Megingjörð, and swings his hammer Mjölnir, which is wreathed in lightning. The painting was made using oil on canvas, has the dimensions 484 x 333 centimeters, and belongs to Nationalmuseum in Stockholm.

Anubis is among the most ancient and important deities of the Egyptian pantheon: he presided over mummification and burial rites and was the Lord of the Necropolis. He was represented, in Egyptian iconography, as a jackal or as a man with the head of a jackal.

This statue offers eloquent testimony to a syncretic divine figure, Anubis, who in the Roman context was assimilated to Mercury: the god with its jackal's head, with a small solar disc on a crescent moon between its ears, wears a short tunic, a cloak and shoes, and holds the caduceus in his hand, in his function as the ferryman of the dead to the Underworld (“psychopomp”).

The statue, discovered in Anzio on land belonging to the Pamphilj family in 1749, was donated to Pope Benedict XIV and was transferred to the Gregorian Egyptian Museum in 1839.

Q, Anons, I've been following these drops since day one, but this is the first I'm hearing of this "Behold a Pale Horse" book from 1991, by Bill Cooper. It actually describes clowns planning to use school shootings as a way to disarm the citizenry.

This looks legit to me, astonishing as the quotes are. What say you all?

Behold a Pale Horse — Milton William (Bill) Cooper, 1991 <http://a.co/0IZY9ra>

"Bill Cooper, former United States Naval Intelligence Briefing Team member, reveals information that remains hidden from the public eye. This information has been kept in topsecret government files since the 1940s. His audiences hear the truth unfold as he writes about the assassination of John F. Kennedy, the war on drugs, the secret government, and UFOs. Bill is a lucid, rational, and powerful speaker whose intent is to inform and to empower his audience. Standing room only is normal. His presentation and information transcend partisan affiliations as he clearly addresses issues in a way that has a striking impact on listeners of all backgrounds and interests. He has spoken to many groups throughout the United States and has appeared regularly on many radio talk shows and on television. In 1988 Bill decided to "talk" due to events then taking place worldwide, events that he had seen plans for back in the early 1970s. Bill correctly predicted the lowering of the Iron Curtain, the fall of the Berlin Wall, and the invasion of Panama. All Bill's predictions were on record well before the events occurred. Bill is not a psychic. His information comes from top secret documents that he read while with the Intelligence Briefing Team and from over seventeen years of research."

Sounds to me like a group of people preparing to commit murders (getting legal protection ready). Hence their logo being the “quiet” symbolism in the ‘rat” eating owl. “Weaving Spyders come not here”

But let’s continue with the lyrics to BOHEMIAN Rhapsody.

Thunderbolt and lightning very, very frightening me. (Galileo) Galileo. (Galileo) Galileo, Galileo Figaro Magnifico-o-o-o-o-o

So why do we get the name “Galileo” repeated after the thunderbolt and lightning? Well, let’s again look at history.

Queen - Bohemian Rhapsody lyrics | LyricsFreak

Thunderbolt and lightning, very, very frightening me (Galileo) Galileo (Galileo) Galileo, Galileo Figaro Magnifico-o-o-o-o I'm just a poor boy nobody loves me He's just a poor boy from a poor family Spare him his life from this monstrosity Easy come, easy go, will you let me go? Refracting telescope

Based only on uncertain descriptions of the first practical telescope which Hans Lippershey tried to patent in the Netherlands in 1608,^[40] Galileo, in the following year, made a telescope with about 3x magnification. He later made improved versions with up to about 30x magnification.^[41] With a Galilean telescope, the observer could see magnified, upright images on the Earth—it was what is commonly known as a terrestrial telescope or a spyglass. He could also use it to observe the sky; for a time he was one of those who could construct telescopes good enough for that purpose. On 25 August 1609, he demonstrated one of his early telescopes, with a magnification of about 8 or 9, to Venetian lawmakers. His telescopes were also a profitable sideline for Galileo, who sold them to merchants who found them useful both at sea and as items of trade. He published his initial telescopic astronomical observations in March 1610 in a brief treatise entitled Sidereus Nuncius (Starry Messenger).^[42]

Moon

On 30 November, 1609, Galileo aimed his telescope at the Moon.^[43] While not being the first person to observe the Moon through a telescope (English mathematician Thomas Harriot had done it four months before but only saw a "strange spottednesse"),^[44] Galileo was the first to deduce the cause of What exactly is a telescope/SPYGLASS used for? Think about that for a moment.

So August 8th 1609 the Venetian senate (Italy/Vatican) examined Galileo's telescope – 17 days later he demonstrated it.

<https://www.ontthisday.com/date/1609> early the next year – 1610 January seventh – the Italian Galileo discovered the 4 largest moons of Jupiter. Officially recorded as the first telescopic observation of non Earth moons! And amazingly enough a german did the same thing independently the same week. (massive coincidence?)

Impressive? Well, it would be.... but there's a big issue with this I need to get into.

One of the nice things about learning symbolism comms is it helps clarify what is and is not a lie. Clowns aren't about to lie in these comms as that's how they themselves teach what is and is not real.

As I discussed in my Nuclear/Blackmail decode

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/01/22/74/> there's quite a few big lies in the scientific community. Things that are real but not at all what they are presented as.

This scientific deception has been a fixture of society for centuries, and the thing is.... despite those moons of Jupiter being “scientific fact” to this day... I’m pretty sure it’s all a lie.

How can I say that? Well, let me introduce you to another Jupiter.

This statuette, both a portrait of the French king, Henri IV, and a representation of the Roman god Jupiter with his emblem, the eagle, is noteworthy for its having been signed by the artist. It has a pendant in a statuette of Marie de' Medici as Juno and can be dated to the first decade of the seventeenth century, before the king's assassination by Ravaillac.

So this was a french king known depicted as “Jupiter” in 1600 who was assassinated in 1610 just a few months after Galileo’s team used their newly invented spyglass (telescope) to pinpoint the Moons (people around) Jupiter (King of France)

And in case you are wondering about motive

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Henry_IV_of_France well, the Pope hated Henri and excommunicated him, his father was assassinated as well.

Henry III was assassinated shortly thereafter, on 2 August 1589, by a fanatical monk.^[15]

When Henry III died, Henry of Navarre nominally became king of France. The Catholic League, however, strengthened by support from outside the country—especially from Spain—was strong enough to prevent a universal recognition of his new title. The Pope excommunicated Henry and declared him devoid of any right to inherit the crown.^[16] Most of the Catholic nobles who had joined Henry III for the siege of Paris also refused to recognize the claim of Henry of Navarre, and abandoned

Considered a usurper by some Catholics and a traitor by some Protestants, Henry became the target of at least 12 assassination attempts.^[3] Having faced much opposition

The king had a dozens assassination attempts made against him before one succeeded (probably why there was a sudden demand funding new long distance spy glasses eh?)

So yea, the song Bohemian Rhapsody references at least 2 different kings murders by the 666, and that's not even the end of the connection to that murdered king.

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Euridice (also Erudice or Eurydice) is an opera by Jacopo Peri, with additional music by Giulio Caccini. It is the earliest surviving opera, Peri's earlier Dafne being lost.

Euridice was created for the marriage of King Henry IV of France and Maria de Medici. The composition is typically

The song Bohemian Rhapsody is from the album "Night at the Opera" – Do you know the oldest opera that still exists is was made to commemorate the marriage of King Henry IV?

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Euridice_\(Peri\)) Yes, the same assassinated person we've been talking about. So that's why the album is called that. A story as old as the opera, there's a power in that long history of past successes.

Now that moon comms and scientific fraud is a little more clear, let's return to the 1872 regicide comms. Remember both of these decodes involved Pope connected affiliates taking down regimes thru regicide in lands far far away. This required international cooperation.

And as such 1872 just so happens to be when the first "International" was held for soccer. Note the freemason connection.

The 1872 association football match between the national teams of Scotland and England is officially recognised by FIFA as the sport's first-ever international. It took place on 30 November 1872 at Hamilton Crescent, the West of Scotland Cricket Club's ground in Partick, Glasgow. The match

Why are Freemasons on the scene of most shooting locations?
Openly giving interviews or in background shots?
Symbolism will be their downfall.

I put this here because after understanding how “science” is used to send comms, it should now be easier to grasp how sports are used. These are events that will get press, and that press will be in public view allowing for inconspicuous sending and receiving of info thru control of the press. 1872’s Bohemian club was specifically created by and for journalists to network. The direct hands on ops would likely be run via telegram, but the rich $ behind the ops would likely get updates via the newspaper comms in articles the common man would also read. A machine operating in plain sight invisibly and successfully for centuries.

Tho I connected it to the Vatican – there’s far more players than that.
