

The Seekers

"But I seek the truth." Again and again this is heard. Sometimes pontifically; sometimes with intensity. Seeking the key to unlock all mysteries concealed in heaven, hell or heart. Yet the mind is so vague; the ideas brittle; patterns of glowing colour with little intuitions that soon fade into chaos.

"The truth, always the truth." Confusing, irritating, skirmishing, darting term. Invisibly hovering, always eluding the frantic fingers of thought; uncapturable, proud of its secret integrity; ever superior to one's philosophies, theologies, sciences. And when we find what we believe to be a truth, how we inflate it, juggle with it, puff it beyond its true size; nibble it, use it as an explosive; place the fever of our egotisms within it; and surround it with diseased fanaticism.

"I want to know the truth," comes a plaintive cry; as though there is one truth to be given to any grubby palm for the asking. Only our mature intuitions can read the celestial alphabet correctly; but this demands a capacity beyond the intellect; demands the mountaineering mind; the eagle-winged purpose; despairing arduencies that endure the solitudes; demands a capacity for a transcendent honesty.

Such are the pursuers of truths. Aware of the intense fires of intuition; aware the great truths have their guardians who will only give the complete answer to the complete man; for such handle these voltages with reverence and responsibility; for a truth is a law, and there are little laws and great laws which we obey or disobey, and when wisely followed can lead to revelation. Only through such comprehensive honesty can one perceive the fullness of a truth; yet not the complete pattern of all truth; for this is a condition of Deity.

THE EDITOR.

---

THE OCCULT OBSERVER

21s. complete volume.

Since we had all the issues of the "Occult Observer" bound, many readers have been delighted with the material and have congratulated us upon a book of perennial interest. Many of the writers translated and helped to produce "The History and Practice of Magic." Half vellum, decorated spine, readable type.

---

WILLIAM BLAKE'S JERUSALEM

A commentary by
JOSEPH WICKSTEAD

Illustrated. £3 3s. 0d.

SECRET
1940
IMPORTANT

THE HARRIS TAROT

The Neptune Press hope that the Tarot Pack designed by Lady Freda Harris will be in production shortly.

This superb pack combines the traditional symbolism with, for the first time, the ancient Rosicrucian teachings, and modern scientific advances. Only rarely is such a pack produced, to claim precedence over all others.

It is in all modesty the publishers believe the Harris Tarot will be the pack of the twentieth century. It will be produced in a limited edition, by Thomas de la Rue Ltd., of London, a firm world famous for its printing and card-making.

Subscription prices will probably be about two guineas (10 dollars) for numbered pack. Only 150 packs will also be produced, signed by the artist, of which 50 sets will be reserved for the United Kingdom, and 100 sets for other countries. These may be three guineas (15 dollars).

The cards will be specially treated to ensure lasting quality. The cheaper set, in a standard box, the other in attractive leather and wooden cases, suitable for presentations, with gold stamping, and initials, will be available.

When writing, refer to:

NEPTUNE PRESS

49a, Museum Street, London, W.C.1
(Tel.: Holborn 2120)

---

THE HISTORY AND PRACTICE OF MAGIC

Translated for the first time from the French of
PAUL CHRISTIAN

by

JAMES KIRKUP AND JULIEN SHAW

A luxury edition of 800 copies with 12 diagrams and tables. This work is now in print and owing to the limited number of copies we can only take a few orders. As our readers know, this work had been in the press for a considerable time, and the price had been increased from £4 4s. 0d. to £5 5s. 0d.; but we think it will be admitted that its whole appearance—its binding and layout—is a very fine piece of typography, besides being an up-to-date work on magic.

---

NEW CONCEPTS OF HYPNOSIS

by

BERNARD C. GINDES

A doctor's findings on hypnotism from the point of view of serious scientific research and clinical observations. He presents his conclusions as to the limits and benefits of hypnosis as a major adjunct to psychotherapy and medicine.

15s. 0d.

The Seekers

"But I seek the truth." Again and again this is heard. Sometimes pontifically; sometimes with intensity. Seeking the key to unlock all mysteries concealed in heaven, hell or heart. Yet the mind is so vague; the ideas brittle; patterns of glowing colour with little intuitions that soon fade into chaos.

"The truth, always the truth." Confusing, irritating, skirmishing, darting term. Invisibly hovering, always eluding the frantic fingers of thought; uncapturable, proud of its secret integrity; ever superior to one's philosophies, theologies, sciences. And when we find what we believe to be a truth, how we inflate it, juggle with it, puff it beyond its true size; nibble it, use it as an explosive; place the fever of our egotisms within it; and surround it with diseased fanaticism.

"I want to know the truth," comes a plaintive cry; as though there is one truth to be given to any grubby palm for the asking. Only our mature intuitions can read the celestial alphabet correctly; but this demands a capacity beyond the intellect; demands the mountaineering mind; the eagle-winged purpose; despairing arduencies that endure the solitudes; demands a capacity for a transcendent honesty.

Such are the pursuers of truths. Aware of the intense fires of intuition; aware the great truths have their guardians who will only give the complete answer to the complete man; for such handle these voltages with reverence and responsibility; for a truth is a law, and there are little laws and great laws which we obey or disobey, and when wisely followed can lead to revelation. Only through such comprehensive honesty can one perceive the fullness of a truth; yet not the complete pattern of all truth; for this is a condition of Deity.

THE EDITOR.

---

---

THE OCCULT OBSERVER

21s. complete volume.

Since we had all the issues of the "Occult Observer" bound, many readers have been delighted with the material and have congratulated us upon a book of perennial interest. Many of the writers translated and helped to produce "The History and Practice of Magic." Half vellum, decorated spine, readable type.

---

WILLIAM BLAKE'S JERUSALEM

A commentary by
JOSEPH WICKSTEAD

Illustrated. £3 3s. 0d.

IMPORTANT

THE HARRIS TAROT

The Neptune Press hope that the Tarot Pack designed by Lady Freda Harris will be in production shortly.

This superb pack combines the traditional symbolism with, for the first time, the ancient Rosicrucian teachings, and modern scientific advances. Only rarely is such a pack produced, to claim precedence over all others.

It is in all modesty the publishers believe the Harris Tarot will be the pack of the twentieth century. It will be produced in a limited edition, by Thomas de la Rue Ltd., of London, a firm world famous for its printing and card-making.

Subscription prices will probably be about two guineas (10 dollars) for numbered pack. Only 150 packs will also be produced, signed by the artist, of which 50 sets will be reserved for the United Kingdom, and 100 sets for other countries. These may be three guineas (15 dollars).

The cards will be specially treated to ensure lasting quality. The cheaper set, in a standard box, the other in attractive leather and wooden cases, suitable for presentations, with gold stamping, and initials, will be available.

When writing, refer to:

NEPTUNE PRESS

49a, Museum Street, London, W.C.1

(Tel.: Holborn 2120)

---

THE HISTORY AND PRACTICE OF MAGIC

Translated for the first time from the French of

PAUL CHRISTIAN

by

JAMES KIRKUP AND JULIEN SHAW

A luxury edition of 800 copies with 12 diagrams and tables. This work is now in print and owing to the limited number of copies we can only take a few orders. As our readers know, this work had been in the press for a considerable time, and the price had been increased from £4 4s. 0d. to £5 5s. 0d.; but we think it will be admitted that its whole appearance—its binding and layout—is a very fine piece of typography, besides being an up-to-date work on magic.

---

NEW CONCEPTS OF HYPNOSIS

by

BERNARD C. GINDES

A doctor's findings on hypnotism from the point of view of serious scientific research and clinical observations. He presents his conclusions as to the limits and benefits of hypnosis as a major adjunct to psychotherapy and medicine.

15s. 0d.