I am very glad that you have been able to see for yourself how I have been placed. I came to Berlin last October because Karl Demme had promised me £2000 to reconstruct the Membrane, & I had to be on the spot. But his sadistic mania postponed this, & kept me utterly penniless on the cat-in-hat money plan, so that every penny he advanced was taken up at once by urgent necessities. He thwarted every effort I made to get to Reinhardt & other men with whom I might have done business. Finally, he gambled all away. Even if I had had money, I could not have sent it to Marie, who stubbornly refused to answer letters, or to communicate with Regardie beyond her to do so. I was never sure of her address, either. (It had her address both with her)

As soon as possible I shall of course pay up all monies expended for her support by the County Councils. (interior of the County Councils)
By the way, I have had no demand from them - she was raring me up some

Bill is a pretty sick girl - I began to think that she must have gastritis or even a beginning of gastric ulcer. So I called in a bloke last night & he confirms my diagnosis; adding a few well-chosen words about her gall-bladder.

He wanted to cut her off to a nursing home right away; but of course this is impossible as things are. In any case, I disagree. The general aspect of life, the feeling of being among strangers etc. more than counterbalances the alleged 'perfect rest' of the Ullinits.

Well, I've got to take my daily walk to Bro: Joseph now; shall call on Schiffer on the way & get Mrs S. to do a bit of the nursing.

The Devils in Hell are also gloating over the Penguin Luncheon.

But the Angels came back at them because

My Grey invested all her money in Bridgman's pointed, Platinum-edged securities at 99 (probably on Karl's advice) & they stand - on slippery snow-covered ice-slopes - at 40.

Karl, free of Cora for a week now, is almost limian, but unplaceable with (let
